Students To Vote Rules?

UNO students may vote to approve or reject the revised constitution of the Student Government Association next week.

The changes were approved by the student senate Thursday night and will be on ballot with the student senate candidates unless the senate encounters problems. If that is the case, the changes will be on the March ballot in the spring election.

The changes include:

—Replacing the Student Body Vice-President with an "Executive Assistant." The "assistant" would be nominated by the Student Body President and approved by a two-thirds senate majority.

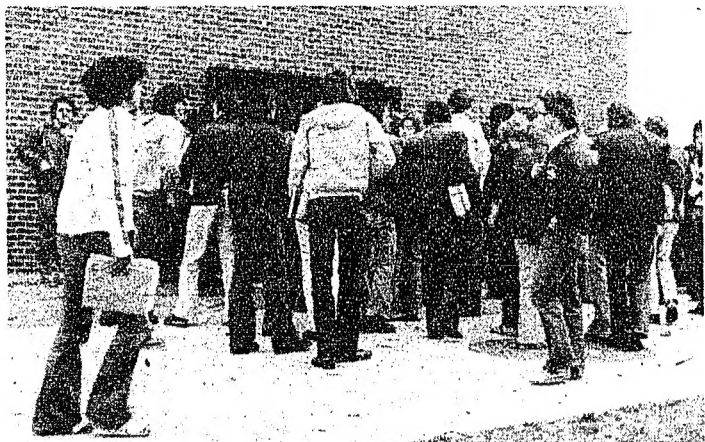

—Moving the presidential election from March to November. The elected Student Body President would assume office at the first senate meeting in January. In conjunction with this, the senate election previously held in October would also be in November.

—Malfeasance in office would be the only grounds for impeachment for members of the executive, legislative and judiciary branches of student government.

According to Graduate College Senator Quinn Smith (Smith is a member of the senate's constitution revision committee), the constitution will rely on Black's Law Dictionary for the definition of malfeasance. Smith said malfeasance involves "the violation of a law or the failure to do what a law requires."

Smith said a resolution for impeachment may be introduced.

Students were held at the door of the College of Business Administration building for approximately 10 minutes Friday as campus security and building engineers checked what set off a fire alarm at 11:34 a.m. Building engineer Herbert Wolz said someone apparently pulled the fire alarm box on the first floor near the elevator. Checks by campus security revealed no other apparent cause for the alarm. The CBA building has been plagued with fire problems since its completion last spring. A small fire broke out in the building last May 7, although no one was injured. Captain W. Mackay Miller of the Omaha Fire Department said in an interview at the time that "fire hazards still exist in the auditorium because it was built that way."

Senate Approves Solidarity Coalition

The Campus Solidarity Coalition was officially recognized by the student senate Thursday night.

Chairman of the Coalition Mike Nolan said the coalition asked to be recognized so they could assist the Assassination Research Committee, which is sponsoring a program on the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Nolan said the coalition is very informal and "isn't like a regular organization."

According to its constitution, the coalition's purpose is to inform the public of proposed action, publicize arguments for and/or against action proposed by governmental bodies and individuals in government, and to attempt to persuade or dissuade governmental bodies from acting where the coalition determines the actions would be contrary to the interests of the public.

The coalition received approval from all but two senators.

Nolan said some of the senators suspected an "underlying rationale" behind the coalition, but insisted the coalition asked to be approved "for no other reason than to help Keith Nicholaison," spokesman for the Assassination Research Committee.

He said he appreciated the fact that most senators went along with the coalition. Nolan remarked, "If you accept the notion that you judge the quality of a man by the qualities of his enemies, then there is no reason for me to be self-impressed."

Roskens Unsure On Staff Hours

By Dick Ulmer

A majority of UNO's staff personnel would like to start work a half hour earlier in the morning. And forty-eight of them want to show up an entire hour before the normal 8 a.m. starting time.

Yes, most university employees (other than instructors) polled by the Staff Advisory Board — the rough equivalent of the faculty and student senates — expressed a desire to begin their days at 7:30 a.m. or before. The kicker: they would be going home at 4:30 p.m. (or before) — a half hour earlier than at present.

Staff Advisory Board Co-Chairman Helen Noyes said the poll was conducted in August while the university's summer hours of 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. were still in effect. Many staff persons, she said, enjoyed the different work day and did not want to switch back to the "8 to 5 routine."

According to Noyes, the poll and a request for changing some staff schedules was passed on to the administration. That was in August and the changes have not been made.

Chancellor Ronald Roskens says he's "an early riser myself" and doesn't "have strong feelings one way or the other" on staff hours, but the proposal was sent to the faculty senate and the Council of Deans for their stamps of approval and the Senate hasn't reported back to him yet.

Faculty Senate President William Petrowski said the proposal reached him too late for consideration by the Senate's October meeting, but it has been assigned to a committee and should come up at the November session.

Jeanne Kisgen, an Advisory Board member and one of the individuals who conducted the poll said employees want the altered hours for a number of reasons. Among them: traffic seems lighter just before 7:30 a.m. and just after 4:30 p.m., parking on campus is easier before 7:30 and some persons ride in carpools that get them to campus earlier than 8.

Most of those voting for a continued 8 a.m. starting time did so for personal reasons like inability to get a baby sitter so early, Kisgen said.

Poll results were: favoring a 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. work day, 48; 7:30-4:30, 177; and 8-5, 85.

Though Roskens said while he is indifferent about when staff start work in the morning, he is concerned with another aspect of the hours question.

"We really are not doing what we ought for evening students," Roskens said. "Most of our offices close at five."

Considering the large volume of night students, Roskens said the university may move to staggering staff schedules in the future so offices can stay open during the evening.

Sorour: 'Hate Letters' Signed 'SGA'

In a speech before the student senate Thursday night, business senator Khaldoun Sorour charged that he had received threatening letters "signed by proclaimed student government members."

"I talked to most of you, and you did not know anything about the subject," Sorour said.

"I may not know how you look at it, or maybe there are differences between the culture I was raised in and the culture of this country; but I consider my presence here as to serve students. The way I do it or try to do it is by approaching issues and things in a positive manner and to the best of my ability."

Tried Respect

"I have tried to respect everyone I've met, even though they may not respect themselves; but I cannot understand the actions of some people, mainly those who proclaim themselves as SGA (student government) members."

"It is very hard for someone to adapt themselves to a different and new way of life," Sorour continued. "I promised myself to keep trying but I failed twice. The first time I could not understand why someone tried to insult me by trying to sell me drugs on campus. I was shocked. I got to a point where I was convinced that I do not deserve to live in this 'heaven', but I changed my mind when I saw that everybody did not consider what I considered an insult to be."

Senate Campaign

Sorour, a native of Saudi Arabia, represents the College of Business Administration in the student senate and is running for re-election.

"When I received the letters and read their words — which, believe me, did not contain nice meanings — I said to myself, 'what are you doing here, these people don't want you here.' It is known all over the world that your country is the 'mother of democracy' and freedom and that you would even remove the head of state because you think he lied to you."

"How would you expect a foreigner to react to all this? How do you want me to react to all this? I see you have the 'Bill of Rights' and all these freedoms and 'all men are equal', but I still do not understand why these people trouble themselves and trouble me; why would I get a phone call early in the morning to hear curses and bad words about my family and my friends? Why would someone hate me for being friendly with Mr. Bellows (student body president Clint), no matter what his policy may be or his line of politics? Does this mean his friends should feel obliged to follow the same line? No."

"Fight Hard"

"I'd like to tell you that I'm going to fight as hard as I can to show these people that it's easy to phone someone and curse him over the phone and tell him they will make sure they kick his 'ass off the senate', but it will be very hard to do so because I will try my best and in a positive manner not to have this happen," Sorour concluded.

Sorour ... "I've tried to understand everyone."

Editorial — Regents Playing It

The Board of Regents, playing strange games of semantics once again, has managed to partially avoid the "task" of having to listen to student views on the proposed student fee increase for UNO.

Despite the commendable efforts of Student Body President Clint Bellows, we have learned the regents will meet in Lincoln next month, not Omaha. Also, the meeting has been moved to Friday, November 7, a day of classes.

Cute. Now, not only do students have to suffer the expense of driving to Lincoln, they also have to miss classes to attend the meeting. Aren't you glad the regents are displaying such a "pro-student" attitude?

Perhaps we should feel lucky. The last time student fees were tampered with, the meeting was moved (at the last minute) to Scottsbluff.

At the very least, we seriously question the decision to hold the meeting in Lincoln. If the regents were truly interested in student opinion, as they have loudly proclaimed so many times, then why is the meeting not being held in Omaha? Surely, when the issue at stake is a money-grabbing 42 per cent hike in student fees, students would pack the meeting room. Is this the reason the meeting is not being held in Omaha? If not, then what is the reason?

Well, in a letter to Bellows, Omaha Regent Robert Prokop wrote "The systems office (building) in Lincoln was designed to hold regents meetings." Therefore, Prokop continues, there is no need to hold the meeting in Omaha.

Logical thought; everyone can see that. After all, everyone agreed the Titanic was an "unsinkable ship."

We're sure UNO can provide chairs just as plush as the ones found in Lincoln.

Let's turn back a moment to those bad old days when the idea of a student regent was revolutionary. A Gateway article of February 6, 1974, says, "Several regents claim(ed) that the board 'has been very receptive to the needs of students.'" The regents then drafted a statement opposing the concept of a student regent.

In this same manner the regents are proving themselves "receptive to the needs of students." Holding the meeting in Lincoln when the fee increase is to be discussed is really being "receptive to the needs of students."

Of course, it is convenient for the regents. They can spend the night in Lincoln and attend the football game the next day.

That's interesting in itself. During Saturday's euphoria over the 63-21 route of Colorado, we kept thinking of our fine football team in Lincoln, built on generous funding. We also thought of the School of Social Work ready to lose accreditation (largely due to lack of financial support), the low priority given to parking and the addition to the performing arts building, and the almost-insultingly low wages paid to faculty in the Nebraska University system.

Wait. Perhaps the regents just haven't gotten around to these needs yet. After all, the regents say they are receptive to the needs of students.

Maybe it would be a wise idea for all students who plan to attend the regents meeting anyway to show up in "Big Red" football uniforms. That way they might even get to the microphone. The regents have shown they are receptive to the needs of football-playing students.

Apparently quarterback strategy doesn't end on the football field. Smart move on the part of the regents to hold the meeting in Lincoln when items of immense interest to Omaha students are to be debated. Doubly smart move to forward the date of the meeting to November 7. Gives the students less time to prepare. The touchdown comes on a play of even more brilliance than the first two — holding the meeting on a Friday, so that students will have to cut a class if they want to attend.

In an editorial of October 22, the Omaha World-Herald said, "We sympathize with all who suffer the tearing bite of inflation, including the students and/or their parents, who foot many of the bills." While we thank the Herald for their generous, warm-hearted sympathy (even though the same editorial suggested the students go ahead and pay the fee increase), we think that newspaper's sympathy was misguided. It should be directed towards the regents, who seem to have so little education that they can't understand the meaning of "receptive." Let alone such abstract terms as "republic" or "democracy" or "equality."

Oh, what meaning "receptive?" The ambiguities people play.

LETTERS

Dear Editor,

I feel compelled to write this letter explaining the irrational actions of my brother Arnold.

Needless to say, Arnold is the least gifted of the offspring in our family. The last of nine children, Arnold has lacked the mental faculties to excel as his much brighter brothers and sisters have.

Mother and father saw it fit to send the other eight of us to the big university in Lincoln. To spare us the embarrassment, Arnold was sent to UNO where his limited talents might have an opportunity to develop.

As we expected, Arnold has been a total failure. He has not joined a fraternity, never attempted to participate in football, and has involved himself in the radical politics of student rebellion.

I cannot express the shame Mother, Father, and we children felt when Arnold publicly criticized the administration's actions. I can assure you that none of the Klutzes, nor any student on the Lincoln campus, would be so repulsive as to challenge an administrative action! We, as proper students should, realize that they know what is best!

It is embarrassing to have a family member admit publicly his lack of knowledge and respect. I must also chastize Seymour Glass, for encouraging and praising Arnold for his intolerable actions.

Most of all, editor, I must condemn you for printing these letters, that could pervert other naive students at UNO. We must all become properly socialized into the university system, recognizing our place, simply as students, not participants in the decision-making process.

Yours truly,
Berford Klutz

Dear Mr. Editor:

Why are we friends with Russia? I'll tell you why we're friends with Russia. The rankings in international political football are: 1. Russia 2. China and 3. The United States. Now, I don't mean to spoil anyone's Bicentennial but if we make friends with Russia then we're both 1 and 1/2 . . . plus they can buy our wheat. What good is being number one if you're hungry?

Senate Candidates Give Opinions

Student senate elections will be held next week, starting Wednesday, Oct. 29, and running through Friday, Oct. 31. The Gateway contacted all formally declared senate candidates and gave them a chance to speak on the issues. Specific questions asked were: 1) What do you think about the proposed student fee hike?

2) What are your views on the proposed downtown center? 3) How would you say the current student senate has been handling its job? 4) How would you say Student Body President Clint Bellows has been handling his job?

Continuing Studies

Charles Bridgeford, 20, political science major:

"My main motivation in running for the senate is the fact that every UNO student gets ripped off in state funding, particularly women's athletics.

"On the student fee hike, I would suggest a one-day boycott of classes. I'm ready to go that far. I am aware of the regents meeting and plan to attend if I can fit it in with my schedule.

"The (proposed) downtown center is foolish. The business community needs something to revitalize downtown, and as far as I can see that's what they're using the downtown center for."

Earl Berg, 28, political science:

"I'm not that knowledgeable about the senate, I'm not up to date on it. I'm just interested.

"The parity problem has got to be dealt with. Also, the application of Fund B monies. We should look at that particularly in light of the proposed student fee increase. It's complex.

"There has to be a balance between buildings and parking on this campus.

"The (proposed) downtown center deserves a second look in view of the funding at UNO. The administration is looking for a pile of financial horror when they can't run what we've already got. I haven't seen any intelligent rationale for the downtown center."

Sophomore Class

Mike Gilmore (incumbent), 19, accounting:

"There are things that definitely need to be done and student government is the place to take action from. Student government also needs people to work.

"I feel the issues are the fee increase, the downtown center, parking, parity with Lincoln, and apathy. We need to find a way of involving more students.

"The fee increase is wrong. It's nothing but a stop-gap measure. If they do it to us once they can do it to us again. It's a question of mismanagement. One way to avoid it would be to streamline the bureaucracy.

"The idea of a downtown center is for a good reason, but there are other things more pressing. We need parking, we need to improve facilities generally, and we need better faculty salaries. I plan to lobby against it; I'm not going to sit back.

"The senate right now is down to a working core. It's bogged down with dead weight.

"Bellows has been doing a better job as he goes along. He's more attuned to the needs of students."

Campus Activities: Student senate, Sigma Nu

Mike Jones (incumbent), 19, law enforcement:

"I really like the senate and have always been interested in student government. I'm staying on because of the fee increase.

"The fee increase should be eliminated or an alternative found. They should eliminate some areas where they spend student fees now. I wouldn't mind a one-year increase, but only one-year.

"Other problems at UNO should be solved before we go building a downtown center. They should come first.

"The senate has been doing a fairly good job considering its situation.

"Bellows has done a fair-to-poor job. He's not getting anything done. He's using the office to benefit himself. Julie (Vice President Morehead) is a much more effective executive. Julie does everything and Clint does nothing."

Campus Activities: Student Senate, Young Democrats.

University Division

Kurt Wolfert, 22, no major declared:

"I wanted to get on the senate to see if I could help someone out. I'd like to publish a newsletter telling University Division students what the senate's doing. The senate doesn't have a good record of completing anything. I want to see how student government works.

"It would be feasible to charge a one-time increase in student fees. I'm not in favor of it being hiked forever, though. The students don't feel they're getting anything right now. Maybe a one-time increase in fees, then a one-year grace period to see how things are working.

"I haven't read that much about the downtown center. A lot of students I talk to are against it. It seems just to appeal to older students.

"The current senate is doing a poor to fair job. I went to the open hearing on the fee increase, and it seemed that so many of the senators hate each other, they just spend their time degrading one another. They don't seem to be pulling together at all.

"The idea of paying senators is not bad, although they tend to squander money. I'd use my $100 to finance my newsletter.

"I didn't like all the time Bellows spent on his raffle. He could've just sold the tickets and donated the money. Bellows antagonizes a lot of people; he can't even get along with his own vice-president. There's not much you can do except work with him or around him."

Campus Activities: Veterans' Association

Tom O'Conner, 20, no major declared:

"I don't know what I could tell you. My two brothers have been involved in student government and I became interested through them.

"I'm against a fee increase. Students shouldn't be forced to pay for the mistakes of administrators. We've got to find an alternate way, some different solutions. I don't know yet what the other ways are, though.

"I have no opinion on the downtown center. I don't know enough about it.

"I feel UNO should be allotted the same amount of money as Lincoln. Lincoln shouldn't get more money because they're bigger.

"The senate has been doing a good job.

"I've only known Bellows for about two months. I think he's doing a fair job."

Campus Activities: None

College of Education

Joseph Temme, 24, speech pathology:

"I've never been on the senate before. I feel lots of things are happening and they happen on the senate.

"I don't have a solution or a stand on the student fee increase. Maybe we need the increase. I haven't had the opportunity to get into it.

"On the downtown center, I think we should concentrate more on UNO. The administration has moved in a positive direction on parking. But they claim they're going to have 20,000 students by 1980, and we should look for a way of facilitating them.

"We should do something on parity. UNO should have comparable funding. The school shouldn't be second-rated. I know some of the state legislators have suggested that UNO should be a separate school, and I think that deserves some thought.

"I would weigh both sides of an issue. I would voice my opinion but I wouldn't be a radical or anything."

Campus Activities: College Veteran's Association, National Speech and Hearing Association

Werner (Dizzy) Dziuvenis, 20, physics:

"There's not a main issue in this campaign. I'm against paying student senators a salary. It's a waste of money and I'm not running for the money.

"I'll do everything I can to fight the fee increase, although I don't think there's much we can do. The administration will do what they want. I think the entire issue is out of the student senate's hands.

"The downtown center is basically a good thing. It extends the reach of the campus.

"I'd like to see parity with Lincoln, but I think Clint's pushing it too much. I don't know what could be done about it. Remember, they have a lot of money tied up in dorms.

"I feel there's been a definite lack of interest on the part of the student senate.

"Bellows is not doing an outstanding job, but he's doing a good job. He's a lot better than Sherrets (past student body president Jim). Sherrets was a loser."

Campus Activities: Lambda Chi Alpha

Margie Cupich:

"The major issue right now is the student fee increase. I want to make sure it gets knocked off.

"What would I do to combat it (the fee increase)? That's a good question. For one thing, lobbying at the regents meeting can't hurt. I'm not familiar with what the senate's been doing.

"I have mixed feelings on the downtown center. I can see good and bad points about it. I want to look into it more.

"Parity? I haven't thought a whole lot about it."

Home Economics

Roxanne Herman, 21, interior design:

"I wanted to run for the senate because Home Economics needs representation. I didn't expect to be the only candidate.

"I'm not really opposed to a fee increase. UNO offers a lot for student fees, such as films and lectures. But I would like to see some money come from the state legislature.

"I'm not very knowledgeable about the downtown center, so I have no opinion on it.

"The senate's been doing a fair job. They don't get that much support from the students and they have a lot of obstacles to overcome.

"Bellows has been doing a fair job. He's a friend of mine. I don't know that much about the government."

Campus Activities: Chi Omega, Phi Beta Phi, Waakiya (president)

College of Engineering

Karen Furst, 20, interdisciplinary engineering:

"There's not enough student participation from the engineering college. Engineering students tend to get separated from the rest of the university because the college has such close ties to Lincoln. There needs to be a correlation between engineering students and other students.

"On the fee increase, I think alternate methods need to be drawn up. Maybe a gradual increase in fees wouldn't be a bad idea. More students need to fight it.

"I haven't done that much research on the downtown center.

"Student government right now is almost a clique. It doesn't reach out enough to students. It needs to be open to the student body.

"I don't dislike Clint, but I think he's being pushed around. I don't think he's aggressive enough. But anyone holding that office has a tough job."

Campus Activities: "I'm a GDI — Gad damn

Bill Woodward, 26, engineering:

"I moved here about a year ago and became interested in the student senate through the Gateway.

"I'm against the fee increase. Half the engineering classes are at night and the student center facilities aren't always open at night. I don't have an alternate plan, I don't have anything on the tip of my tongue.

"I have no personal use for the downtown center. We're getting shortchanged here; we should concentrate on parity with Lincoln. Most people who would go to class downtown would go here just as easy.

"I think a lot of people get on the student senate just because it looks good on a resume. Bellows is doing a great job."

Campus Activities: Association of General Contractors, summer orientation leader 1975

Freshman Class

Mary Lyons, 18, political science:

"I thought from what I saw at the open hearing on the fee increase I could provide some input. I could do as well as any of the current senators.

C.P.A.C.S.

Carol Filipowicz, 20, public administration:

"It's really important that the relationship between the student regent(s) and the other regents be defined. Even Bellows admits he doesn't know what's going on. I'd like to work on that.

"I don't like the fee increase. Obviously money has to be raised to cover the (student center's) deficit. I think the state should have to put money in, because the student center isn't used only by students. I don't understand where all that money is going.

"The downtown center is a joke. It's just to help the downtown mall. There's plenty of room in the evening for classes. Students are just getting the run-around on this.

"The senate is doing a good job in that they're sincere. I'd like to see their legal position clarified, though. Most of them are resigned to the fact that the fee hike is going to go through no matter what they do.

"I don't think Clint's done too much. His rating would be in the bottom half of 'fair.' A lot of that's personal. He hasn't done anything except support athletes."

Campus Activities: Young Democrats

Not responding: James Clark

"I'd also like to see student fees phased out as a way of financing the pep band, the cheerleaders, the choir, and the Gateway. Nothing drastic, but a gradual cutback. I need more information before I suggest specific amounts.

"At this time I'm opposed to the downtown center. It's a benefit to downtown businessmen and cheap urban renewal for riverfront. Peter Kiewit's $2.5 million gift won't go unnoticed when the Board of Regents awards the construction contract.

"The senate has done a fair job. They're too comfortable with each other and modify too much. There's not enough dissent. It's bad they're not radical.

"Bellows is doing a poor job. He still identifies too much with the social organizations that elected him. He can't represent night students at all. Bellows and the senate have an inflated idea of themselves. They're politically impotent."

Campus Activities: None

More Senate Politics...

Business College

Khaldoon Sorour (incumbent), 22, marketing:

"I've always been interested in being on the senate. I was on the senate at the school before I came here. I feel I can accomplish something. I like the senate; it's a challenge to me. Someone wants me off because I've started to accomplish something.

"I do not agree with any increase in student fees. The problem might not be solved without a raise in fees, but after looking the issue over, I do not agree with charging the students one more dime.

"I don't have the full data on the downtown center yet. I can't really tell you I'm for it or against it.

"The senate has been trying. The senators I know are trying and I hope we can accomplish something. Some new, positive ideas have come up. There's a whole new constitution, plans for lobbying against the fee increase, and parity with Lincoln.

"I think Bellows is doing a fair-to-good job."

Campus Activities: Student senate, International Students Organization

Pat Connolly, 23, economics in business administration:

"I filed my application for the senate because I'm capable of the job. Someone's got to do it and I enjoy it.

"The increase in student fees is a short-run issue. The long-run issue is regaining control of student fees. We've been working on that a long time. We're going to get control of Fund B either through the unicameral or through a lawsuit.

"Parking is fading as an issue. It's not as bad as last semester, probably due to re-scheduling of classes. Remote parking is a short-run solution."

"No one has convinced me that a high priority should be given to the downtown center. The university's role is not building buildings.

"I can't see where Bellows has provided any leadership. I had to beg him to get the addresses of the regents. But maybe he's doing something I don't know about."

Campus Activities: Young Democrats, Economics Club

Not responding: Al Aleksolis, Mark Thomsen.

Maureen Rinn, 18, accounting:

"The senate needs a business-like atmosphere. I can't promise miracles, but I sure can try. I see possibilities for some real accomplishment.

"To me, the administration has not justified the reason for a fee increase. It's not the student's fault if the student center was run so badly without a contingency or reserve fund.

"I think it's ridiculous to propose a downtown center. I don't see the sense of financing two campuses when there are other priorities.

"Being a freshman, I can't really comment on Bellows. I don't have the whole picture."

Campus Activities: Sigma Kappa pledge

Graduate College

Ed Jelinek (Incumbent), 25, biology:

"I'm running because I was appointed and I'd like to stick with it. I'd like to see the senate get something done.

"I'm against the fee increase, certainly against raising it that much. It's a hidden tuition cost. There's no valid justification for the increase.

"I'm very much against the downtown center. It's a business venture and the downtown businessmen are trying to exploit UNO. My constituency is against it. It's ludicrous. I'd like to see it canned.

"Parking has to come to a head. It's time the administration adopted a plan and raised parking's priority. Campus planning is full of beans.

"I've pretty much ignored Bellows and concentrated on my own duties. He seems fairly smart but I'm not sure how competent he is."

Campus Activities: Beta Beta Beta (biology honorary)

Mike Palamisano, 33, educational administration:

In a press release given to the Gateway, Palamisano said:

"I feel that I could represent the student body in general and the graduate students specifically in all areas of student concern at our university. Also, I believe we could add some new light to the student senate on the graduate level.

"The issues:

"To make more information available to graduate students concerning future employment possibilities.

"I have in the makings a colossal plan for parking — student parking in general, both on the graduate and under-graduate level.

"To get total representation of the student body.

"To help obtain more total and state respect in regards to our university.

"To supplement resource materials at our library with no financial obligations to the university."

Gerald A. Brown, 22, educational foundations:

"I decided to run because the senate has been disregarded as a body. Students don't take enough concern in their own governing bodies. There are some real potent issues at the moment.

"Fee increase: students should not pay for repairs of state buildings. I'm not in a position to propose a plan, but there are a lot of alternatives. I would support just about any effort, including a boycott on classes to show student strength. That would be a maximum measure, however. There's a point where we're tired of being put upon.

"I have no definite feelings on the downtown center at this time.

"The student senate has obstacles in their way. What's needed is leadership.

"Bellows is doing a pretty good job as far as getting the issues to the students."

Mark Wering, 18, political science:

"I want to become involved. I thought I'd see what's going on; it's more interesting than doing nothing.

"The fee increase isn't necessary. There are other ways of getting the money — I'm sure the senate can find some.

"I'm not very familiar with the downtown center. I don't think too many students are crazy about the idea.

"There has to be a better way of getting and managing money. I haven't really gotten into the fund structure yet, but I'm interested in how the money is spent. Student government has an obligation to inform students how fee money is spent."

Mary Jo Humphrey, 18, medical technology:

"I don't know much about the senate, but it's one way to get involved in school activities.

"If I had to pay the fee increase I'd be against it (I'm on scholarship). A lot of kids work and can't afford it. The administration gets enough money from us.

"I haven't heard anything about the downtown center.

"If I thought the student senate was doing a poor job, I wouldn't be joining; but then, I'm only a freshman.

"If Bellows can't get along with his vice-president, how does he expect anything to work?"

Campus Activities: Chi Omega, Vice-President of pledge class

Pat Carmody, 26, history, pre-law:

"I've never run for anything before. I feel helpless, what the administration has done to us. They have a complete lack of sensitivity. They take our money from us and then we have to prove they're wrong.

"The downtown center is ridiculous. There's too many problems on campus right now. If older people won't come here because they're embarrassed, then let them get over their embarrassment. If so many downtown people want to take classes, why not run a shuttlebus between here and downtown? A bus from Ak-Sar-Ben works. We can't get books for the library, and (Chancellor Ronald) Roskens wants to build a downtown center.

"The student senate has been ineffective. By the time they're done with their bylaws, there's no time left for proposals. More legislation is needed in place of procedure. They're a joke to the administration.

"Bellows has done a poor job. He just voices things the administrators say. He sounds like their lackey; he talks as if he is the administration. He should oppose them more."

Campus Activities: None

Jim Homann, 22, political science:

"Since the senate controls a large amount of money, we should have a look at it. I'm totally against payment of senators. They should want to represent students for reasons other than money. Maybe I can accomplish something.

"I want to study the fee increase further before I come up with a plan.

"The greatest thing that confronts the students is apathy. The administration is apathetic to the student voice. They administrate from the viewpoint of expediency.

"I'm not certain there's a need for a downtown center. We should look after ourselves first. We don't even have a swimming pool.

"The student senate is doing a fair job. I believe, in general, that senators are there so they have something to put on their resume.

"Bellows doesn't have enough time to devote to his job. He took it for his resume and has accomplished nothing. The football ticket lottery was a farce. His ideas aren't thought out."

New Major Approved

UNO faculty members involved in the International Studies and Programs Department won approval Thursday for the establishment of an International Studies major. The approval was given by the policy committee of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Final approval is anticipated for later this semester from the Educational Policy Advisory Committee (EPAC).

This semester two new courses have been added to the International Studies curriculum: "International Studies 213, Third World Nations in a Conglomerate World; A perspective." and "IS 214, Third World Nations in a Conglomerate World: Case Studies on Afghanistan, Bolivia and Malawi."

Instructors from various departments aid in the instruction of these courses. IS 213 was begun in September and IS 214 will be offered in January.

The courses were made possible by a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Thomas Goutierre, Dean of International Studies and Programs, said the two courses are components of the IS major that is expected to be approved later this semester.

Orville D. Menard from the Political Science department is faculty coordinator for the project and Goutierre is project coordinator.

"I feel that UNO is a thriving urban university and that it should have a strong international studies program. Any strong arts and sciences college should have a strong international studies focus," Goutierre said.

WHAT'S HAPPENING by Ward Peters

Are Plants Healthy?

The Industrial Technology Club is going to sponsor a speaker from OPPD to talk on the Fort Calhoun nuclear power plant. The power talk begins tonight at 7:30 p.m., in the Century Room in the UNO library. Find out what that plant grows.

Happy Trails to You?

Hunter Thompson, king and inventor of gonzo journalism, will be on the lecture trail along with Frank Mankiewicz next Monday evening, Nov. 3, 8 p.m., in the MBSC Ballroom. Admission for the madness is a buck for UNO students, $1.50 for other students and alumni and two smacks for general audience. Come fear and loath along with the rest of us schmucks.

Granite Opportunity?

How would you like to be granted a grant? The folks at the Office of Financial Aids want you to know that if you are an undergraduate and carrying at least a six hour load then you may apply for the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant. Don't take this for granted. But take it. Stop in the Admin. and put your two cents worth in the application form.

Stomp Those Grapes!

How many pecks in a bushel? How many pints in a bushel? The UNO Vet Club is going to have their Halloween Party at Caniglia's Rancho Villa Club House, 6363 Grover St., and you are invited to try out your costume at the party.

Or come as you are. Door prizes will be handed out. Like a bushel of booze. Two dollar tickets may be purchased in advance at MBSC 232. Beer and food are covered by the two buck cover.

Breezy Stores?

For twenty dollars you can learn a little bit about folklore. Dr. Richard Thill will instruct the class every Tuesday in November, 7-9 p.m., in the library Conference Center. The mini course is designed for the people involved in literature and creative writing. Come get introduced to folklore. Call 554-2391 for more of the story.

Twistin the Night Away?

Today at 12:30 p.m., you can see a lecture/demonstration of the Alvin Ailey Dance troupe in the Performing Arts Recital Hall for free. In case you miss the movers at UNO, then another chance you can see them for free is at Burke High School tonight at 7:30 p.m. Call 554-2623 for more moves.

Pronounced: "Waakiya"

Waakiya is the senior women's scholastic honorary and they are looking for new blood in their membership. You don't have to be old to be a senior but you must be a senior, have a 3.0 GPA or better and you've got to be active on campus and in the community to be eligible for consideration. If you want to be a Waakiyan, then find MBSC 250 and pick up the form which is due back by Nov. 7.

Ping-Pong Mongers?

Within a few days, history will be made at UNO as the first annual Table Tennis Tournament gets under way in the Women's Gym. You've got to paddle over to the Games Area Desk in the Student Center and enter your name in the divisions available. The action begins on Nov. 1. Brush up on your shots and spin (top spin, that is) over to the tables.

Mass for Drop Outs?

When was the last time you were inside a Catholic church? You've got a chance to attend Mass today and every Wednesday at noon in the St. Margaret Mary's Church. No twenty minute sermon. No tax involved. Pew over.

Chile Today, Hot Tomali?

Two movies will be shown in Allwine 308, today at noon, that may bring you down or vault your volts. "Campamento" is about the slums of Chile and "Energy: A Matter of Choice" is about the crunch you've been reading about for the past few years. Bring your lunch and much along with the bunch.

Are You on the Right Track?

Tomorrow in MBSC 313, noon-2 p.m., some Transcendental Meditation folks will be on hand for some help/advice for those mellow people who are already involved in the thinking but need some tips. They call her mellow yellow, quite nicely!

Interim Policy on Rights and Privacy Spelled Out

By Craig Cramm

In August of 1974, President Ford signed legislation protecting the privacy and rights of access for a student's educational records.

Called the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, but known as the Buckley Amendment (after its sponsor, the legislation) guarantees the student access to and privacy of educational records.

The provisions of the amendment, administered by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, (HEW) binds every educational institution which receives funds from any federal program administered by the United States Commission of Education.

Don Pflasterer, assistant vice-chancellor for educational and student services, said a number of schools are asking HEW for clarification about 1) the student's rights of access to educational records, and 2) the challenge of records thought to be inaccurate, misleading or inappropriate.

A Gateway article (February 12, 1975) quoted Ron Beer, vice chancellor for educational and student services, about release and access of educational information.

Beer said, "We're lucky in that UNO is a kind of forerunner in this. We established a set of guidelines for this kind of thing about a year and a half ago, and we're not too far off with the federal laws."

Vice chancellor Pflasterer concurred, noting he will present Beer with an interim procedure draft "Following the guidelines of the amendment."

Pflasterer said the request for clarification to the amendment has slowed compliance nationwide.

"Though the amendment has a couple of gray areas, we put the interim procedures together because we have to inform the students about their rights. So far, we have not done a good job. This draft should clarify for the student, faculty, etc., what their rights are in regard to access and privacy, until HEW gets the legislation finalized."

Pflasterer said the interim procedures detail:

- what is public information and releasable
- what is confidential information
- limitations on access (who may or may not see the records)
- who the responsible parties are for collection and release of information
- who will be allowed access to grades, other than the student

- reasons for withholding records
- and procedures for the review and challenge of records.

The interim draft defines public information as two types: directory information and other information not contained in the student directory.

Directory information includes such information as name, address, phone number, college, and year in school.

Other directory information includes date and place of birth, dates of enrollment at UNO, previous schools attended, awards and academic honors, participation in student activities and sports, and kind of degree and the date awarded.

Public information will be released by the Registrar to anyone requesting information unless the student has notified the Registrar that specific items not be released.

Confidential information includes any item not considered to be public or directory information. The availability of confidential information is confined to university personnel who demonstrate a need for the information in order to carry out official responsibilities.

The legislation allows only intra-university personnel access to student records, whenever a "legitimate educational interest" is involved. Individuals outside the university community requesting information must have the written consent of the student, or parent if the student is a minor.

Pflasterer has included in his draft procedures to keep a record of who saw the file, the purpose for which the file was examined, clear notice that the information shall not be released to third parties without the consent of the student, and the name and signature of the individual who reviewed the file.

Pflasterer said though a record covering who saw the file, etc., is not part of the Buckley Amendment nor the Code of Conduct now being drafted to define the rights and responsibilities of students, he will recommend the inclusion of these provisions since "there is no reason this record should not be kept. There is no secret about it."

Limitations on access describe what information educational institutions are not required to release to the student.

This information includes confidential letters and statements of recommendation placed in the education records prior to January 1, 1975, financial records of the parents of a student, records maintained by physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, or other recognized professionals. The student however, has the right to appoint an appropriate professional of their choosing to inspect the records.

Institutions are not required to make available to the student confidential recommendations for admission, employment, or honors if the student has waived his/her right of access.

In a Gateway article (February 12, 1975) Vice Chancellor Beer said, "It's a good thing that a student can't sign all his rights away. He can still sign a waiver to release information if he wants to, but he doesn't have to."

Under the federal law, a school may not require a student to waive his/her rights in order to be accepted to the school, receive financial aid, or other benefits and services.

... Policy on Rights and Privacy

Law enforcement records, used only for law enforcement purposes, will "usually not be available to the student," and may only be used by law enforcement officials.

Pflasterer said this provision needs to be clarified, though included in the interim procedures.

"We need further clarification of this clause. It doesn't fully explain how they (law enforcement agencies, campus security) will use the records. If I don't understand how they will be used, then I don't think the student will either. So, we are going to have to clarify this section."

In addition to the provisions defined, the Buckley Amendment allows a university to release personally identifiable education records without the student's consent to "certain" federal and state education authorities, accrediting and testing agencies, courts, after receiving a judicial order, parents of dependent students, or when the release of the information might protect the health or safety of the student or other persons.

Responsibility for collection and release of the information has been delegated to the Registrar, for academic records, director of admissions for admission records, assistant vice chancellor for finance for business records, and the director of counseling and testing for counseling records and test scores.

Other responsible parties include the vice chancellor for educational and student services for disciplinary records, the student housing director for housing information health service for medical records, director of career development and placement for placement records, the vice chancellor for academic affairs (or the individual in charge) for responsibility of special academic programs, the director of campus security for traffic and security records, and the director of veterans affairs, responsible for veteran's records.

The university's interim policy on grades allows the sending of grades to parents only after written permission is received from the student. In the case of dependent students under the age of eighteen, parents may write to the Registrar for release of the student's grades.

The policy also stipulates when records may be withheld.

Students who are delinquent in an account to the university may have their records withheld. Reasons for withholding of records could include unpaid traffic or parking violations. Though not part of the Buckley Amendment, UNO's policy allows school officials to request action against a student if his/her obligation has not been met.

Pflasterer said though the clause is in the university's interim policy, "I'm not so sure it should be in, even though it is policy now." Pflasterer maintains the right of a school to withhold transcripts and refuse admission to students who have not met their obligations has been tested in the courts and found to be valid, though not in Nebraska.

Asked whether he (Pflasterer) would recommend the clause be deleted from the interim policy, Pflasterer said he has "mixed emotions" and would study the matter further before making any other recommendation.

The review and challenge of records by a student is granted when it is believed the records are "inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise violate the privacy or other rights of the student."

The interim policy makes mandatory a form which will be made available to students which defines the appeal and hearing procedures.

The first appeal and hearing procedure provides for an administrative review by the individual named as custodian of the records.

The second appeal calls for a review by the dean or director to whom the custodian is responsible.

Further appeals for administrative review may be directed to the Provost vice chancellor for the unit maintaining the record system.

A final hearing may be requested from the Chancellor's office. A hearing panel established by the Chancellor will review and make any final decision.

Students may present evidence in his/her defense, and a written response must be given by the panel, addressing the complaint.

Pflasterer said Beer's office should receive the recommendations within a week. "We're complying, but have not advertised up to now," Pflasterer said.

He said he will recommend the information in the draft be included in future student handbooks.

Pflasterer noted a number of schools have established interim policies, awaiting the final rules and regulations from federal authorities. Our job now is to get the information to students, so they know exactly what they have a right to see, and exactly what the rest of their rights are. The amendment covers almost all the possibilities, and now it is a matter of educating the people."

Kennedy Death Re-visited

By Doug Simmons

A radical Cuban, acting alone, lifted the cheap rifle and peered through the scope at the passing motorcade. Visually, the back of John Kennedy's head appeared just yards away as the Cuban, Lee Harvey Oswald, squeezed the trigger for the first of three times. Kennedy dies.

"Bullshit!" say many assassination researchers. The murder did not happen that way, which is contrary to the official conclusion. A conspiracy of many is the claim of most of the researchers.

The Warren Commission, appointed by President Lyndon Johnson, declared officially that Oswald did act alone. Among the members was Gerald Ford, who still supports the commission's results.

Penn Jones Jr. will attack this answer next Thursday in the MBSC Ballroom. The two talks, at 1:00 and 8:00 p.m., are sponsored by two groups, the Campus Solidarity Coalition and the Assassination Research Committee. Admission is $1 for students and $2 for the public.

"Jones is an original first-generation researcher," said Keith Nicholaison, spokesperson for the two groups. "He is one of the top assassination researchers in the country."

Nicholaison, whose phone number ends in the digits 1963, fits the media-coined label of "assassination buff." These are persons who disagree with the Warren results and have been rehashing the evidence in search of other explanations.

Now retired, Jones was editor of the Midlothian Mirror, a paper found just outside Dallas. This paper has printed more column inches than any on earth, Nicholaison said, and Jones has been on the story from "day one."

Accompanying the talk will be the controversial Zapgruder film. This film was shot during the motorcade by a Dallas businessman, Abraham Zapgruder. Researchers have used this film to point out apparent discrepancies in the Warren Report.

"The copy used by the Warren Commission was horrible," Nicholaison said. "Ours is much clearer. It is a third-generation print. We are even going to point out what looks like a second gunman."

Computer aided slow motion and blow-up shots are used to isolate crucial frames. "It's a stunning movie," Nicholaison said.

Later this month the Student Programming Organization is going to present a three day symposium on the Kennedy assassination.

After reviewing our Food Preference Surveys that were handed out two weeks ago, it's obvious that one of the items that our customers really don't care for is our Chili Con Carne. We have reviewed some different recipes and on Monday we are going to try a new recipe for our homemade chili.

I would like to thank everyone for taking their time to jot down your comments about Food Service. The Food Service Preference form will be handed out from time to time to help Food Service meet the requests of the customers.

CHILI CON CARNE

3 tbsp. butter or olive oil
1 large onion, minced.
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 pound chopped beef
3 cups water
1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
1 green pepper, minced.
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 teaspoon cayenne
1 teaspoon cumin seed, crushed
1 small bay leaf
2 tablespoons chili powder
1/2 teaspoon basil
1 1/2 teaspoons salt

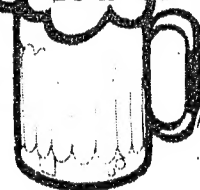

1. Heat the butter in skillet, add the onion and garlic and saute until golden brown. Add the meat and brown.

2. Transfer the meat mixture to a large saucepan and add the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer, uncovered, until the sauce is as thick as desired, or about three hours. If desired, add one can of kidney beans just before serving.

My pick for Spirit of the Week is Chateau Monbazillac. It is a sweet white table wine, has a beautiful golden color, and about the consistency of Galliano. It sells for about $4.00 a bottle and is very good for an after dinner wine.

Proposed Constitution of the Student Government Association of the University of Nebraska at Omaha

PREAMBLE

We, the students of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, wishing to promote high standards of scholarship and citizenship, to be represented in dealings with faculty, administration, community and governmental authorities, and to have one supreme-student governing body, do hereby establish and ordain this constitution for the administration of student government.

ARTICLE II. NAME

The name of the association shall be the Student Government Association of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, hereinafter referred to as the SGA.

ARTICLE III. MEMBERSHIP

Section 1. All currently enrolled students of the University of Nebraska at Omaha are, by the fact of their enrollment, members of the Student Government Association. Regular membership is the only type of membership in the SGA.

Section 2. Persons no longer enrolled at UNO are ineligible for membership in the SGA.

Section 3. No regularly enrolled student in UNO may be denied membership in the SGA on the basis of race, religion, national origin, sex or age.

ARTICLE IV. ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

Section 1. The Student Government Association shall consist of three branches: the Executive Branch, the Student Senate, and the Student Court, whose duties and responsibilities are described herein.

Section 2. Each branch of the SGA has the right to provide for its own internal organization and rules of procedure, when not in conflict with the Constitution and By Laws of the Association.

ARTICLE V. OFFICERS

Section 1. The executive officers of the Student Government Association shall be the President, the Executive Assistant and the Executive Treasurer. The President of the SGA shall be elected by the Student Government Association. The Executive Assistant and the Executive Treasurer of the SGA shall be appointed by the President, with the advice and consent of the Student Senate of the SGA.

Section 2. The President of the SGA shall be elected by the members of the SGA on a Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the month of November and his term of office shall begin at the first meeting of the Student Senate on the following January. He shall serve for one year or until removed from office under procedures established under this Constitution. Candidates for the office of President must be members of the SGA and must be eligible to maintain such membership throughout the one year term of office. Election rules and procedures are contained in the By Laws of the Student Government Association. If the office of President is vacated, a special election must be held within forty (40) calendar days of such vacation and the election rules and procedures contained in the By Laws of the SGA shall be followed.

Section 3. Duties and Responsibilities of the President.

- To appoint eligible students to University committees, councils, boards and other agencies (except the Student Senate), with the advice and consent of the Student Senate, i.e. subject to a 2/3 vote of approval of a quorum of Student Senators at a regular or special meeting of the Student Senate.
- To appoint the Justices of the Student Court, with the advice and consent of the Student Senate.
- To appoint the Executive Assistant and the Executive Treasurer of the SGA, with the advice and consent of the Student Senate.
- To establish a Budget Commission consisting of at least four Student Senators and the Executive Treasurer, with the advice and consent of the Student Senate. The Executive Treasurer shall be the chairperson of the Budget Commission.
- To introduce Executive Bills and Resolutions in the Student Senate.

f. To approve or veto all written resolutions of the Student Senate, except those resolutions pertaining to his own actions, e.g. resolution to censure, admonish or reprimand for nonfeasance, misfeasance or malfeasance in office, and resolutions for his impeachment. Vetted resolutions must be presented to the Student Senate at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the Senate. Presidential vetoes may be overridden by a 2/3 majority vote of a quorum of Student Senators at a regularly or specially scheduled meeting of the Student Senate.

g. To represent the students of the University of Nebraska at Omaha at all meetings of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska. The Speaker of the Student Senate, when acting as President of the SGA, may not so represent the students of UNO.

- To perform such functions and duties as shall be assigned to him by the Student Senate, in so far as such assigned duties and responsibilities are to be performed for the student body as a whole and not exclusively for the Student Senate.

Section 4. Duties and Responsibilities of the Executive Assistant.

- To assume those duties and responsibilities delegated to him by the President, when not in contravention with the rules, Constitution and By Laws of the Student Government Association or the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.
- To assume the duties and responsibilities of the President during his absence, when such assumption is approved by both the President and the Speaker of the Student Senate and when in conformity with the laws of the State of Nebraska and the By Laws of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.

c. To sit as an ex-officio non-voting member of the Student Senate.

Section 5. Vacancies in the Executive Branch.

- If the office of President of the SGA is vacated by reason of death, resignation or removal from office under the provisions of this Constitution, the Speaker of the Student Senate shall temporarily serve as the Acting President until the election of a President under the provisions of this Constitution. When the Speaker of the Student Senate is acting in the capacity of the President he shall have the duties and responsibilities described in Section 3 of this article, except that he shall not represent the students of the University at meetings of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.

- If the offices of Executive Assistant or Executive Treasurer are vacated by reason of death, resignation or removal from office under the provisions of this Constitution, the offices shall be filled as prescribed in Section 3.c. of this article.

Section 6. Removal from Office.

- The President may be removed from office only through impeachment proceedings as prescribed in this Constitution.
- Malfeasance in office or a ruling of the Student Court on matters concerning election irregularities are the only acts by which the President may be removed from office.
- The Executive Assistant or Executive Treasurer may be removed from office by their appointing authority, the President, or for malfeasance in office as prescribed in this Constitution. Removal from office by the President must be by reason of failure to perform prescribed functions as stated in this Constitution or the By Laws of the Student Government Association.
- Malfeasance is defined as the commission of an act which is positively unlawful; the doing of an act which is totally wrongful and unlawful; the doing of an act which a person ought not to do at all or the unjust performance of some act which the party had no right or which he had not contracted to do; comprehensive term including any wrongful conduct that affects, interrupts or interferes with the performance of official duties.
- Wrongful act is defined as an act in violation of this Constitution or By Laws.

ARTICLE VI. LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 1. The legislative branch of the Student Government Association shall be the Student Senate.

Section 2. The Student Senate shall consist of 32 Senators representing students in the following University classes, colleges, schools and divisions: freshman, sophomore, junior, senior and graduate classes; the Graduate College; the College of Continuing Studies; the College of Arts and Sciences; the College of Engineering and Technology; the College of Business Administration; the College of Education; the College of Home Economics; the College of Public Affairs and Community Service; the School of Fine Arts; and the University Division. Two Senators shall be elected from each of the five classes. Each of the remaining colleges, schools and divisions shall be represented by at least one Student Senator. The remaining twelve (12) Senate seats shall be apportioned according to the enrollment in each educational unit of the University. The apportionment of the Student Senate seats shall be made annually by the Student Senate on the basis of the Enrollment during the Spring semester.

Section 3. Election of the Student Senators representing the following educational units of the University shall be held at the same time as the election of the President of the SGA: freshman class, College of Continuing Studies, College of Public Affairs and Community Service, and University Division. Election of Student Senators representing the following educational units of the University shall be held during the Spring semester in March:

sophomore, junior, senior and graduate classes; Graduate College; College of Arts and Sciences; College of Engineering and Technology; College of Business Administration; College of Education; College of Home Economics; and the School of Fine Arts.

Section 4. Student Senators shall serve a term of one year from the date of election, and in no case beyond graduation from an undergraduate or graduate program of the University.

Section 5. Any member in good standing of the SGA is eligible for the office of Student Senator. To represent a college, school or division, a candidate for the Student Senate must be enrolled in the college, school or division whose seat he wishes to fill at the time of the election. To represent a class (freshman, sophomore, junior, senior or graduate), the candidate for office must be a member of that class during the semester during which he will serve a major portion of his term of office, i.e. at least six months of a one year term of office.

Section 6. Student Senate vacancies shall be filled by interim appointments from eligible applicants approved by a simple majority of a Student Senate quorum. Senators appointed to fill an unexpired term of a vacated seat shall serve until the next regularly scheduled election.

Section 7. A Student Senate seat may be vacated through death, resignation, impeachment or failure to meet the attendance rules of the Student Senate, as established in the By Laws of the Association.

Section 8. A Student Senator may be removed from office only through impeachment proceedings prescribed by this Constitution. Malfeasance in office shall be the only grounds for impeachment of a Student Senator.

Section 9. The Student Senate shall convene to conduct business at least once each month of the three academic semesters (Fall, Spring and Summer). More frequent meetings of the Student Senate shall be determined by a majority of the Senate during the first meeting after the elections in November and March. Special meetings may be called by a majority of the Student Senators or by petition of at least 10% of the votes cast by students during the last election. The time and dates of Senate meetings shall be determined by a simple majority vote of the Senators.

Section 10. A quorum to conduct business during a regular or special meeting of the Student Senate shall be a simple majority of those Senators in office.

Section 11. The internal organization of the Student Senate and its rules of procedure shall be prescribed in the By Laws of the Association.

Section 12. The duties and responsibilities of the Student Senate shall be:

- To prescribe the time, place and manner of holding elections for elective offices within the Student Government Association.
- To determine its internal structure and rules of procedure.
- To grant initial recognition of student organizations petitioning the Student Senate for such recognition under the rules and procedures prescribed in the By Laws of the Association.
- To create and dissolve agencies of student government under conditions prescribed in the By Laws of the Association.
- To grant or deny approval of all student organization fund raising activities on the campus of the University.
- To oversee the activities of all on-campus University committees, councils, boards and other agencies on which there is student representation, when such student representatives were initially approved by the Student Senate in its function to advise and consent to the nominations submitted by the Executive Branch of the SGA.
- To be the students' final approving authority for the allocation of that portion of the Student Activity Budget which has been delegated to the student governing in accordance with the By Laws of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.
- To petition the Faculty Senate, the administration of the University and its officers, any person or agency within the University of Nebraska system and outside the University system for redress of grievances.
- To prepare articles of impeachment against members of the Executive Branch, the Legislative Branch and the Judicial Branch of student government.
- To remove from office any Student Senator who fails to adhere to the attendance or eligibility rules prescribed in the By Laws of the Association, such removal being subject to a 2/3 affirmative vote of Student Senators in office.
- To formulate policies, by laws, and rules of procedure which are proper and necessary for executing the foregoing powers of the Senate, and such other powers and responsibilities vested in the Student Senate through the provisions of the Constitution and By Laws of the SGA or the By Laws of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.

Section 13. Speaker of the Student Senate.

The Speaker of the Student Senate shall be elected by a majority of the student Senators within one month after the March elections. The duties and responsibilities of the Speaker of the Student Senate shall be prescribed by the By Laws of the Association.

ARTICLE VII. JUDICIARY

Section 1. There is hereby created a supreme court for the students of the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Such court shall be designated as the Student Court.

Section 2. Composition and Terms of Office.

a. The Student Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and four Justices, who shall be members of the Student Government Association of UNO.

b. The Justices shall be appointed by the President of the SGA, with the advice and consent of the Student Senate. Their terms of office shall be one year, with three (3) terms expiring on the last day of the Spring semester, and the remaining two (2) terms (including that of the Chief Justice) expiring on the last day of the Fall semester. Student Court Justices may be reappointed as prescribed in Article V, Section 3.b. of this Constitution.

Section 3. Jurisdiction:

a. The Student Court shall have jurisdiction over conflicts arising under this Constitution or the By Laws of the Association, rules and resolutions of the Student Senate, between and within student organizations, regarding student elections, and all other conflicts or disputes as deemed appropriate by a consensus of the three branches of the Student Government Association.

b. The Student Court is the court of original jurisdiction in all cases involving students only.

c. Vacancies on the Student Court shall be filled in accordance with the provisions of Article V, Section 3.b. of this Constitution.

ARTICLE VIII. IMPEACHMENT

Section 1. Impeachment of the Executive Officers of the Student Government Association, members of the Student Senate, and members of the Student Court may be initiated by the Student Senate in accordance with the provisions of this Constitution.

Section 2. Impeachment of Executive Officers and Student Senators may be initiated by resolution introduced in the Student Senate. The only grounds for impeachment is malfeasance in office. Articles of impeachment must be approved by a 2/3 affirmative vote of all Student Senators in office. Impeachment trials of Executive Officers and Student Senators will be held by the Student Court, with the Chief Justice presiding. Conviction by a majority vote of all Student Court Justices holding office will result in the immediate vacancy of the office held by the Executive Officer or Student Senator.

Section 3. Impeachment of Justices of the Student Court may be initiated by resolution introduced in the Student Senate. The only grounds for impeachment is malfeasance in office. Articles of impeachment must be approved by a 2/3 affirmative vote of all Student Senators in office. Impeachment trials will be held by the Student Senate, with the Speaker of the Senate acting as the Chief Judge. Conviction by a 3/4 affirmative vote of the Student Senators in office will result in the immediate vacancy of the office held by the convicted Student Court Justice.

ARTICLE IX. AMENDMENTS

Section 1. Propositions
Amendments to this Constitution may be proposed by a resolution introduced into the Student Senate. Student Senate approval of a proposed amendment must be by a 2/3 affirmative vote of a quorum of Senators.

Section 2. Publication
Proposed amendments must be published and made available to the members of the Student Government Association at least twice within three weeks prior to a regular Student Government Association election in March or November.

Section 3. Ratification
An amendment shall become part of this Constitution upon approval of a majority of the student votes cast at a regular election of the student body.

ARTICLE X. ENABLING ARTICLE

This Constitution shall become effective on November 1, 1975, and after receiving approval by a majority of the student votes cast in the October 1975 Student Government Association elections. Final approval shall be contingent upon approval by the Chancellor of the University of Nebraska at Omaha and by the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska.

LA SCENE:

by

Charbon

To err is human, to forgive, divine.

Since divinity is a quality never ascribed to a critic, I pose you a problem. Can a "play" possessed of little or no "redeeming social value" or dramatic content be badly under rehearsed, poorly articulated, saturated with both technical and thespionic blown cues and bumbled lines, succeed to the point where an audience will afford the production a "standing ovation?"

"No" you say . . . "absolutely not" you say . . . "HELLO NO." you say . . . WRONGO!!!! Just such an unthinkable phenomenon did in fact occur on last Thursday at the Omaha Community Playhouse.

I long ago made a vow in blood that I would never review any play in its preview performance, which is merely another rehearsal played to a papered house. (That's theatah talk for a friendly, freebee audience) One should never break a vow, bloody or otherwise.

The stumbling, stuttering production in question is a bit of comedic tripe called "How The Other Half Loves" currently being offered by the playhouse. It purports to be a "delightful show" dealing with a farcical concept of the genre of Moliere and Feydeau. It fails badly.

The idea of "combining place and space rather than time and action" (NY Times) by employing a set revealing two different apartments at the same time works only rarely in the Playhouse production. Two dinner parties, one being held on Thursday and the other on Friday, share a common but aesthetically separated table. This particular scene works quite well.

For the most part, however, the performance was badly flawed. I was consistently being made aware of line deliveries prefaced by "this is a funny line, folks." When such was not the case as in Dan Brady's "all the signs point to . . ." and Phil Pfenninger's "bloody Mary" lines the comedic effect was devastating as was Pamela Carter's "pervert."

But for me those happy instances were few. Much of the audience did not choose to agree with me. In point of fact they laughed at almost everything. At times their laughter reached nearly maniacal proportions. So be it.

The qualification in the third sentence foregoing refers to what I consider to be the high point of inanity in the production. Three egg laying references to a local tabloid elicited the following audience response: silence, silence and silence, in that order. Localization of the text will occasionally work, more often it results in silence, silence and whatever.

In charity I hasten to declare that the players themselves were obviously victims of lack of rehearsal time. A production of this kind is utterly dependent upon exact, split-second timing in blocking and cue pickup. Absolute familiarization with the set is vital. Less than two weeks simply does not allow for either. "How The Other Half Loves" is a terribly busy piece. It demands perfection of style far beyond the ordinary, and that takes TIME. That's what the OPH production needs. What it does not need is the false sense of accomplishment provided by Thursday's "standing ovation."

This Alan Ayckbourn nonsense continues through November 9th each night except Mondays. Hopefully some of the kinks will straighten out as the show runs.

Carter Politics: All In The Family

Commentary
By Michael Mayhan

"I campaign because I think the people in our country need to know more about a candidate than issues," said Mrs. Rosalynn Carter at an Omaha press conference last Friday.

Mrs. Carter, wife of Jimmy Carter — the former governor of Georgia and Democratic candidate for the presidency — added "by the time election comes around people are going to know about Jimmy Carter."

Mr. and Mrs. Carter reportedly shook hands with 600,000 Georgians during the Carter campaign for the governorship in 1970, and they rarely appear together during campaign efforts because they feel more people can be reached if they travel separately.

Nevertheless Mrs. Carter doesn't have any regrets about this type of involvement. Politics, she said, has brought her family closer together.

"I really think we need equal rights for women," said Mrs. Carter as she carefully distinguished supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment from "women's lib."

According to Mrs. Carter the "vocal element" of "women's lib" could cause a "backlash" and thus prevent passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

She added that her husband has voted for the Equal Rights Amendment and backed the hiring of women in "high places."

The Jimmy Carter campaign for the presidency is like that of many other Democrats; it is based on a broad populist appeal to overcome the advantage of an incumbent president.

In his recent book Why Not The Best Carter has written,

"When a business executive can charge a $50 luncheon on a tax return and a truck driver cannot deduct his $1.50 sandwich — when oil companies pay less than five per cent on their earnings while employees of the company pay at least three times this rate — when many pay no taxes on incomes of more than $100,000 — then we need basic tax reform."

Like some others Carter has also spoken out against the Ford belief of continued economic expansion of industry and energy resources.

"We are grossly wasting our energy resources and other precious raw materials as though their supply were infinite. We must even face the prospect of changing our basic ways of living. This change will either be made on our own initiative in a planned and rational way, or forced on us with suffering by the laws of nature," Carter has said.

On military spending the former career naval officer has said, "the Pentagon should reduce the ratio of officers to men, and of support forces to combat troops. I see no reason why the the Chief of Naval Operations needs more Navy captains and commanders on his staff than we have serving on all ships at sea."

Questioning the amount of military spending puts Carter in direct opposition to President Gerald Ford.

According to a Ralph Nader report on Gerald Ford's performance as representative for Michigan, Ford's 1970 congressional opponent "accused him of having a 'blank check' approach to military spending. 'As House minority leader,' the report adds, "Ford has been one of President Nixon's most lyrical supporters on the conduct of the war . . ."

Mrs. Carter, "People are going to know about Jimmy Carter."

"Ford has also advocated appropriations for defense and space research. In 1957 he proposed the sale of government 'savings bonds for science' to help the U.S. in the Missile-Sputnik race with the USSR. In 1970 he voted to give NASA $268 million more than it requested (H.R. 16516). He (Ford) has steadfastly supported military spending proposals and voted against the Pike amendment to HR 8687 and the Aspin Amendment imposing the 1971 military research and development budget as the 1972 budget ceiling. Instead, Ford backed an increase in spending, supporting HR 11731. He opposed his fellow Michigan Republican Don Reigel's amendment to HR 11731 to reduce the entire defense budget five per cent and Les Aspin's Amendment for a two per cent reduction."

Jimmy Carter says he is a farmer, engineer, planner, businessman and governor, and theoretically this should give him wide appeal if, indeed, "people are tired of everybody from Washington," as his wife has said.

But the proof . . . the proof is in the primaries.

duced by any senator and must be approved by two-thirds of the senators in office.

Smith said it was the intent of the senate that the Student Body President elected this spring would serve until the November election, but said "theoretically Bellows could serve until November." He said the Student Court or Election Commission may have to rule on this.

Mavs Hit Hard In Homecoming Fray

By Gregg Peck

As the University of Nebraska at Lincoln's Cornhuskers were trouncing the University of Colorado's Golden Buffalos Saturday afternoon, the Mavericks of the University of Nebraska at Omaha got the "buffalo chips" knocked out of them by Northern Colorado (Greeley) 35-14 Saturday evening.

Within the first minute and a half, Northern Colorado quarterback Russ Boone had hurled a touchdown strike to speedy Mike Mitchell and UNO's Homecoming spirit appeared to be on the skids. However, the Omahans fielded the ensuing kickoff and marched downfield, aided by some nifty John Smolsky scrambling and some quick stepping by little freshman Harold Young, to knot the score at seven apiece.

The Bears from Northern Colorado then began to march again, but the Mav stop-unit held; and as the Bears moved inside UNO's 20 yard line, the popping got ferocious. That's when defensive end Mickey Woodside got off what Head Coach Bill Danenhauer termed "possibly the best hit all year" and forced a fumble.

A Maverick miscue gave the pigskin right back to Northern Colorado, an undefeated ball club this season, and set up their second TD, a seven yard scamper by back-up QB Kevin Davis.

Smitty Ejected

The momentum of their second score, coupled with the ejecting of UNO defensive back Tommy "Jet" Smith for fighting, left the Mavs listless.

Of the hard-hitting and number of injuries to players on both teams, Danenhauer stated: "I don't know how to say this in journalistic terms and so it doesn't sound bad, but Northern Colorado is a very cocky outfit and they were calling us down (namecalling) all night long."

"And I can't tell you what that guy called Smitty (Smith) because it wouldn't be printable in the newspaper, but he (Smith) also got hit in the stomach and blew his cool; or you might say, he lost his composure."

Danenhauer also mentioned some "late hitting" going on. "I don't know if Young got hurt (ankle injury) on a late hit or not," said Danenhauer, adding: "the little guy (Young) did a fine job at I-Back."

Elliot Excels

Another freshman, Clarence Elliot, a 195-pounder out of Louisville, Ky., was named outstanding Maverick offensive back as he netted 45 yards on seven attempts. "We're going to work with Harold and Clarence very hard. They're going to be good ones by the time they're seniors," remarked Danenhauer.

Danenhauer said: "I'm definitely very disappointed in our season because I know we can play better than we are (playing); but it's the same old problem — lack of consistency in execution of our offense and defense."

He concluded: "The men are down on themselves, and it is understandable after what we've been through. But they've stopped believing in themselves; it's just one of those things that can happen with a young ball club and a tough schedule."

Said Danenhauer: "As much as I would like to, I can't buy success for them; it's one of those things they have to earn on the field for themselves."

Complementing Elliot as outstanding offensive players were John Thomsen on the line and Ed Kresl, a senior out of Omaha Gross, who won the receivers' prize.

Woodside got the lineman's plume for the second straight week while Don Cahill, this year's Homecoming King, was the outstanding UNO linebacker; Mike Brunahan was the top defensive back for Coach Dave Madison's proteges.

Harriers Lose 'Ace' Hermismeyer

Hill

By Mike Devish

The University of Nebraska at Omaha cross country team has been reduced to four athletes because of persons quitting and injuries.

Elliot Evans, UNO's cross country coach, said that UNO did not have enough people to compete in last week's meet at Northwest Missouri. Three people quit for assorted personal problems.

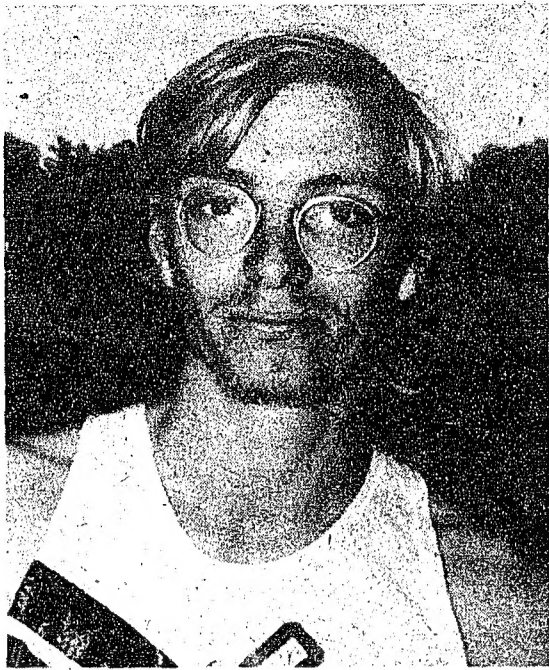

Evans said: "Rick Schulze had personal problems and just wasn't doing the work; he was our number two runner in the first two meets. Tim Hall, a transfer from Drake, quit school to work construction, and Scott Schreiner just dropped off the end of the earth, haven't seen him for a while."

Injuries and illness has further reduced UNO's squad, said Evans. "Barney Hill has had a cold and is just now starting to get back to running.

"Neal Hermismeyer, our best runner, is out for the rest of the season with a shin splint." Evans added Hermismeyer's injury was the most unfortunate thing to happen to the cross country squad. He said, "Neal was our best runner; he was good enough to run in the national meet but he can't hardly walk and I doubt if he'll be able to run till the indoor season starts."

Reflecting on how the season might have been, Evans said, "We started out o.k., we won at Wesleyan where all of the good cross country teams in Nebraska compete. I think we had the best cross country team in the state but then one by one people quit or were injured and we were drug down to the ground. It's a shame since we started out so well."

Caniglia Family Joins Ceremony

Ross Caniglia, a Council Bluffs judge, responded for the family in a pre-game ceremony dedicating the University of Nebraska at Omaha football field to his brother Al. The 14-year coach at UNO died two years ago.

Al Pallone represented former players. UNO officials on the program were athletic director Don Leahy, Dr. Robert McCune, an administrative assistant, and Chancellor Ronald Roskens. UNO officials said a plaque will be selected later.

Lou Caniglia of Omaha also was present to honor his brother's memory.

Hockey

The University of Nebraska at Omaha club hockey team will open its home schedule Nov. 8 against Iowa State at 5:45 p.m. at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum.

The Mavericks will play I-State again the following day at 12:30 p.m. at Ak.

Arrangements for the 16-game home schedule are nearly complete, said Jack Webster, general manager. Only season ticket holders will have reserved seats.

Season tickets at $25 apiece may be purchased by calling the UNO Athletic Department, 554-2305 or 554-2310. Individual game tickets will cost $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children and students.

Intramurals

By Dave Coulton

As the UNO Intramural Flag Football season heads into its final two weeks, both league titles are still up for grabs.

The Spooks, the only undefeated team in flag football, could wrap up the League I title this week barring any upsets. They are scheduled to end their season tonight at 6 p.m. against Tappa Kagga Daya, 2-3 on the year.

Coulton's Top Six

1. Spooks 5-0
2. Wild Bunch 5-1
3. Raiders 5-1
4. Pikes 4-1
5. Organization 4-2
6. Sig Eps 4-2

Last week the Flag Football card was shortened with three games being rescheduled for Wednesday, November 5. The entire Top Six remains the same for this week as four of the six teams playing won.

In League II, the Raiders and the Pikes remain tied for the League lead. The Raiders received a scare from the Shooting Rocks last week, but escaped with a 1-0 overtime victory to keep their portion of the lead.

The Pikes-Lambda Chi match was postponed until Nov. 5.
